Conference At Casablanca
Believed To Have Taken Care Of Atlantic

QUEBEC, Aug. 21—There were indications today that the Quebec conferences between President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill had been convened for the primary objective of driving Japan out of the war before any all-out attempt is made to invade Hitler's European fortress.

Such strategy of course, represents a radical modification as military planning between the two English-speaking Allies since Pearl Harbor, when the United States was thrust into the global conflict. But the decisions of previous military conferences between the United States and Great Britain coupled with crumbs of information received here, make the Japan attack strategy fit together like pieces in a cross-word puzzle.

First and foremost in the analytical picture is the repeated public agitation by the U. S. S. R. for the establishments of a second front in Europe. It can be assumed only that Russia turned to the public with her appeals after conversations along secret diplomatic lines between the United Nations had convinced Joseph Stalin that a "second front" in Europe was not forthcoming at least in the immediate future.

Russ Attitude Cited

It can be conjectured further that if Mr. Roosevelt and Mr. Churchill were plotting an imminent second front operation in Europe, they would have informed the Russian government of their plans, for her cooperation in providing a military diversion would be an integral part of any European operation, if success is to be achieved.

Second in importance in this trend of logic is the admitted fact that, despite recent successes against German U-boats, the United Nation's number one problem is the shipping "bottleneck" both in freighters and in war vessels.

It is known that, by comparison, the war in the Pacific requires much larger tonnages in both these categories of ships, than does the European war. And therefore, if Japan should be knocked out of the war, immense quantities of freighters and war

U. S. Navy Prepares To Go In After Jap Fleet That Refuses To Fight

WASHINGTON, Aug. 21—New and heavy blows against Japan both from the sea and air were believed imminent today as U. S. task forces prepared to go in after a Japanese fleet that refused to come out and fight.

It was also believed likely that American forces in the Pacific were preparing a bold thrust at one of the biggest Japanese bases in the entire Pacific.

New statements that the strong Japanese fleet was in hiding in home waters were made in Washington by Vice Admiral Dewitt C. Ramsey, new chief of the Bureau of Aeronautics who recently returned from a carrier task force in the southwest Pacific. Ramsey, a native of Arizona, declared that Jap forces in the south Pacific were "leathen" to come out and fight.

"They just don't want to take a bad licking," he said.

Admiral Ramsey, however, warned against American overconfidence. He said that the Japs have been able to replace plane losses even though the United States still held preponderance in the air. At the same time, he said that the first line Japanese carrier strength probably equalled that of U. S. forces in the Pacific war theatres.

Veteran naval officers pointed out that the reluctance of the enemy to come out and fight would make the American task of clearing the Japanese from the Pacific much more difficult, since the U. S. navy will be forced to fight in their home waters to get at the main Nipponese fleet.

However, it was believed that the U. S. forces, instead of seeking actual contact with the enemy, would make a daring thrust at one of the main Japanese bases and force the enemy fleet to come out and fight.

The plan, in brief, includes:

Normal individual tax rate would be increased from 6 percent to either 8 or 10 percent; corporate normal rates from 40 to 45 percent; excess profits from 90 to 95, with the present 80 percent ceiling being retained.

Bond Deductions

Taxpayers who purchase new type war bonds, redeemable only after the war, would be given deductions on income taxes up to 15 percent. New type war bonds would not bear interest until after the war and would be non-transferrable.

Advantages claimed for the plan are that it would put war bonds in the hands of millions of people, would provide them with a "cushion" to meet the post-war shock and would meet immediate revenue needs of the treasury.

The plan, it is estimated, would produce upwards of $40,000,000 in taxes and bonds in addition to present revenues, with most of the revenue coming in the form of induced investment in bonds.

In order to induce purchase of war bonds, however, the author of the plan proposed that an individual be required to purchase twice the amount of his exemption.

Deduction On

For example, a man with a $3,000 net income could get a deduction of $450 by purchasing war bonds in order to lower his tax, but he would, at the time he claimed exemption, have to purchase another $450 in bonds.

Some observers expressed the belief that the net amount received in stimulated bond sales would have to be reduced by deducting

Soldier Held For Assault And Robbery Of Film And Stage Star

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 21—Army authorities said today that a military court would try Pvt. George P. Rimke on criminal assault and robbery charges brought by Lina Basquette, former Ziegfeld Follies dancer and film star.

NO date for his court-martial has been set, but it was indicated that it would be in about two weeks.

Rimke was arrested in suburban Burbank August 9. At the time of the incident he was attached to the Muroc air base hospital, some 70 miles north of Los Angeles. The actress accused him of crime.

In a broadcast reported by the OWI, the Vatican station quoted Archbishop Stepinac of Zagreb as saying that the pontiff cannot "act in flat contradiction to the general principles of justice and decency to accede to an impossible demand."

TAX EXPERTS PLAN HOIST OF INCOME RATES

Drastic Program Aimed At Elimination Of Inflationary Gap

CREDIT FOR WAR BONDS

Individual Levy May Be Increased To 8 Or 10 Percent Ceiling

WASHINGTON, Aug. 21—Congressional tax experts today were studying a drastic new revenue program designed to eliminate the inflationary gap of excess buying power by increasing income tax rates and inaugurating a revolutionary $40,000,000,000 war bond purchase plan.

While the author of the plan declined to permit use of his name, it was made apparent that the proposal will figure prominently in congressional action on the treasury's request for a $12,000,000,000 tax bill.

The plan, in brief, includes:

Normal individual tax rate would be increased from 6 percent to either 8 or 10 percent;

FRANCO WARNED HE MUST HALT AIDING HITLER

LONDON, Aug. 21—Well-informed observers in London today expressed the belief that Sir Samuel Hoare, British ambassador to Spain, has given Gen. Francisco a straight-from-the-shoulder demand to stop his pro-Axis activities during his meeting with the Spanish dictator at Coruna.

These sources declared that Sir Samuel, his position strengthened by Allied control of the Mediterranean plus supremacy in the air over much of Europe, demanded that the Spanish regime cease spreading propaganda in South America aimed at splitting up hemispheric solidarity. He also was said to have told Franco that Spain must cease permitting German warplanes to fly over the country and end the practice of relaying to the Axis information concerning Allied convoy movements through the strait of Gibraltar.

Spains participation in the war against Russia through the medium of the Blue division also was protested, these observers said.

Sir Samuel, they declared, saw Franco at the latter's invitation and without any prior knowledge by Hitler — another factor viewed as a possible straw in the wind.

DEATH TOLL IN FACTORY BLAST INCREASED TO 12

KEARNY, N. J., Aug. 21—A mounting toll was recorded today as rescuers probed the twisted mass of concrete and steel that was all remaining of the blasted Congoleum-Nairn plant No. 12. So far there are 12 known dead and possibly as many as 15 more victims buried in the wreckage.

The explosion occurred Thursday night just as the shifts were changing and for a time it was feared more workers were in the deathtrap than otherwise would be. The building collapsed with a terrific explosion which shattered windows within a one-mile radius.

Four agencies were investigating the blast, the FBI, army authorities, Kearny police and the Hudson county district attorney's office.

MUNDA AIRSTRIP NOW OPERATED AGAINST JAPS

NAVY HEADQUARTERS IN SOUTH PACIFIC, Aug. 15—

(Delayed)—As the result of a swift job by the Seabees, U. S. navy construction battalions, the Munda airstrip was operating as a base for American aircraft on August 13, eight days after its capture from the Japanese garrison.

First U. S. pilots to land on the Munda airfield and take off on a combat mission were Major John E. Little, First Lieut. Cotesworth B. Head of San Francisco, and Second Lieutenants Donald W. Davis and D. P. Works of the 13th Army Air Force.

Japanese failure to bomb the strip and prevent its repair after capture by American forces has been officially interpreted as a sign the enemy has been forced on the defensive in skies over the Solomons.

Munda is no farther from the Japanese airbase at Kahili than from Henderson field at Guadalcanal from which U. S. bombers winged forth against the Japs to neutralize the New Georgia base.

Some of the American planes covering the recent invasion of Vella Lavella island by U. S. forces took off from Munda, it was revealed.

HATRED OF HUNS ADVANCES NEAR BREAKING POINT

NEW YORK, Aug. 21—Swiss press dispatches reaching the Office of War Information today said the subjugated peoples' hatred of the Germans was reaching the breaking point and that "only an Allied landing" on the continent was necessary to start revolts "everywhere."

The Bern newspaper Die Presse asserted that even the Nazis in occupied territories now refrained from lauding their new order, "which was forced on many nations like a dog collar."

"It is obvious," the paper said, "that the hatred and the thirst for revenge, which is manifesting itself in countless acts of sabotage among the millions of people who have been needlessly and stupidly tormented, threaten Germany's future almost more than the Russian-American assault."

The Gazette de Lausanne pictured the conquered peoples of Europe "rumbling with anger" and said the little obedience to the Nazi rule that still existed was "only on the surface."

There also were growing indications in Washington that U. S. forces planned to intensify air attacks on Japan shore installations in the south Pacific. It was possible that major air offensives may open up against the Japs from three directions simultaneously once the groundwork is laid.

Great significance was attached to the fact that a British military mission has been sent to Washington to confer with top-ranking army and navy officials over the Japanese war situation. To many this indicated that with more favorable weather in India and Burma, combined British, American and Chinese forces may open an offensive there with the immediate view of obtaining air bases closer to Japan itself and a long-range military campaign to retake Singapore.

In order to induce purchase of war bonds, however, the author of the plan proposed that an individual be required to purchase twice the amount of his exemption.

ONE MAN'S OPINION

By Walter Kiernan

Well, the Archduke Otto of Austria, single, 33, jobless, won't be drafted for military service.

But Stuart Day of Nantucket, Mass., married, 36, soda clerk with five children, will be drafted.

Otto is not "qualified" or "acceptable" to serve in the army. That's the report.

But Stuart Day is.

Otto is one of, nobody knows how many, Europeans to duck over here and fight Hitler at 3,000 miles.

Day, native-born, may be permitted to fight Hitler at closer range. . . say 200 yards. . . say at bayonet length.

When the war is over, Day will come home from Europe.

NIPS TURN TAIL, RUN FOR FIRST TIME IN WAR

106 Air Attacks, 15 Shellings
By Navy In 14 Days
Too Much For Enemy

initial heavy raid launched against the airfields this last week killed more than 1,500 Japanese airmen and battered some 215 Japanese planes, most of which were caught still on the ground apparently in preparation for a strong assault against Allied concentrations.

Japs Retire

Deprived of their much-needed air support, the Japanese were forced to retire rapidly when American-Australian fighters drove forward to seize four important strongpoints around Salamaua. Taken quickly were Goodview Junction, Mount Tambu, Ordubu and Komiatu.

Elsewhere in the fringe of islands protecting Australia, American naval units were adding to the toll of Jap ships sunk or damaged. Off Dovell on recently captured Vella Lavela Island in the Solomons, two small enemy surface craft were destroyed. Medium bombers also attacked three barges near Timbala, scored two hits on a small beached cargo vessel at Paraso bay, and sent to the bottom a large barge at Kakusa on Choiseul Island.

Allied warships continued their incessant bombardment of the Italian peninsula with a new 24-hour assault, while swarms of African-based bombers practically isolated the port of Naples by blasting its rail and road connections with the rest of Italy.

Selecting the railroad marshaling yards at Benevento, 40 miles northeast of Naples, as their special target, squadrons of B-25 Mitchell bombers and their P-38 Lightning escorts spread devastation among switching points, repair shops and rolling stock and battered two nearby rail and highway junctions while shooting down four of 20 attacking enemy interceptors.

Lash At Railroad

Simultaneously, B-26 Marauders also operating behind a protective screen of two-tailed Lightnings, lashed the Aversa yards north of Naples and blocked the line linking that city with Rome.

This main rail link was dotted with gutted trains, while along the right of way at least one large warehouse was badly damaged and a number of smaller buildings and a gas works nearly demolished.

One of the wildest dogfights of recent days broke out in the skies over the Aversa yards as Axis intercepting formations challenged the raiding squadrons. Marauder gunners shot down five Nazi planes in 20 minutes while Lightning pilots chalked up an additional six. Six other craft were listed as probably destroyed, making at least 17 planes out of the 30 in the enemy formation accounted for.

British-flown Warhawks also punished the toe of the Italian boot in a round-the-clock onslaught which saw the RAF pilots sweep over the region three times in search of targets not already rendered almost useless.

They blasted the Locri rallyards and the junction city of Gioia, 30 miles northeast of Messina. Other Warhawks, flown by American pilots, rocked Sardinia and set extensive grassfires in the vicinity of the Monserato air-drome.

Mainland Shelled

Simultaneously, naval vessels hurled volleys after volley into the western shore of Calabria province in southern Italy, causing fires and explosions among targets which also were under attack during the day from low-flying warplanes.

The Algiers radio was heard by CBS in New York reporting that huge fires swept shore installations bordering the gulf of Gioia following the naval bombardment which was carried out by American warships. The announcer, quoting a headquarters communiqué, said also that units of the Royal Navy blasted landing craft trapped off Scales and sent at least seven of the craft to the bottom.

And on the Russian front, things were going bad for the Axis. The Berlin radio said still another offensive has been started by the Red army, which has turned a 1,000-mile stretch into a flaming battlefield.

ITALY THROUGH, RUMORS CLAIM

CLARK GARAGE RAID CLEARED BY MILITARY POLICE

Burglary in the Clark garage in Williamsport early Wednesday was cleared up Friday afternoon by military police from Fort Thomas, Ky., when they arrested three northwestern Ohio youths. The youths, arrested on suspicion by the Allies are poised at the very doorstep of Italy. Sole points still remaining at issue were said to concern the disarmament of the Italian army which, it was asserted, Crown Prince Umberto wants to lead against the Germans now entrenching themselves north of the River Po.

Discussions on this point were alleged to be underway to the Allied staff conferences at Quebec, with emphasis on whether Umberto would make a suitable leader. These reports also asserted that the Quebec conferees discussed the fate of the Italian navy as well; particularly when and how it could be surrendered and then remanned quickly with identical crews for action on the side of the Allies.

The capture was made at Elizabethtown, Ky. Mayor W. D. Heiskell of Williamsport was first contacted by J. W. Hodges, county attorney at Elizabethtown. Heiskell referred the county attorney to Deputy Pontious.

Technical Sergeant Karl Smothers, 22, of Fort Bliss, Texas, arrested Thursday for questioning in the Wednesday night burglary, was exonerated by Deputy Pontious, but his exoneration didn't keep him from going to Fort Hayes, Columbus, to face charges of being absent without leave. Fort Hayes military police took him to Columbus Friday evening. Mrs. Vivian Wesley, arrested with him, was freed.

the present rate of purchases. Thus, it was pointed out, the government's actual receipts could not be wholly estimated at this time.

One advantage claimed for the plan is that corporations, as well as individuals, would be able to set up post-war reserves. In the case of corporations, the redeemable bonds would aid them in reconverting to peace-time production.

Congressional tax experts, studying tax returns, reported that the excess profits tax is not producing satisfactory results. Corporations are said to try to avoid excess profits, because they become subject to the uncertainties of the renegotiation law and in any event have small chance of retaining them.

CURFEW LAW TO BE SUCCESS, JUDGE DECLARES

Circleville's new curfew law, passed Wednesday night by council and put into operation Thursday night at 10:30, is almost certain to be a success. Judge Lemuel E. Weldon said Saturday that a check up made by John Kerns, his juvenile officer, showed that children under 17 have been getting off the streets earlier at night than prior to passage of the ordinance.

Under the legislation, no children will be arrested but their names will be taken and their parents held responsible for them. Parents are subject to fines if they do not get their children home before 10:30 at night.

Kerns checked the business district and outlying areas Thursday night and Friday night and reported to the court that the condition is much improved.

Police are cooperating at present by telling youngsters they must leave the streets before the deadline. Later, after every one has had a chance to become acquainted with the curfew law, arrests are likely.

But, from all indications, the curfew is going to be observed in better manner than expected. The law was passed at the request of juvenile court which feared that without some type of legislation the ever-growing juvenile delinquency problem must become even more critical.

GAS AND MEAT COUPONS MEAN NOTHING IN EAST

NEW YORK, Aug. 21 — New Yorkers already bitter about meat ration stamps—you can't eat 'em, use 'em, or give 'em away—today were inclined to be equally cynical about gasoline coupons.

A gas famine, in which approximately 90 percent of gas stations in two of New York's boroughs, Manhattan and the Bronx, were without the fuel, was reported today.

Coming on the heels of reports of a lifting of the pleasure driving ban, spokesmen for the gas dealers reported little relief could be expected for two or three weeks and said relaxing of driving regulations would only mean "more car operators will get no gasoline at all."

HELEN BERTHA DANNER DIES AT ADELPHI HOME

Mrs. Helen Bertha Danner, 35, wife of Francis Danner, died Friday at 10 p.m. at her home in Adelphi. Mrs. Danner, mother of seven children, was ill only two weeks.

Survivors include her mother, Rhoda Ann Tunahill; her husband; the following children, Lloyd Roscoe, Betty Louise, Nolan Francis, Mary Ruth, Geneva Ann, Clinton Berman, Berlin Eugene, all at home; a brother, Luther Gilpin of Laurelvile, and a sister, Elin E. White, Columbus.

Funeral services will be Monday at 2:30 p.m. at Pleasant Hill church, with burial in the adjoining cemetery by L. E. Hill, Kings-ton.

PRODUCE OR GET OUT, ORDER TO PLANE MAKERS

CINCINNATI, O., Aug. 21—The Wright Aeronautical Corporation's plant at suburban Lockland, termed by Sen. Harry S. Truman (D-Missouri) as "one of the worst managed we have found," was warned today by the Truman senate investigating committee and the Army Air Forces to produce aircraft engines in quantity and quality or leave the field.

Following a three-hour hearing during which company officials admitted that production was less than a sixth of that before the committee made its first report last month, and only a twelfth of capacity, Senator Truman, committee chairman, told newsmen:

"There must be an improvement of management or the army will take it over."

The Lockland plant is one of the most perfectly toolled in the country," he said, "but it is also one of the worst managed we have found."

China has been fighting a valiant war for six years, with little more than the bare hands of her soldiers. She has suffered untold hardships and there was a time, less than a year ago, when there were grave fears in Washington and in London that she would be forced out of the war by ruthless Japanese attacks and the lack of Allied material aid.

Lastly, in the event of the anticipated fall of Italy and with a mortal blow at the Nipponese islands, Germany would stand as the sole remaining beligerent of the three-power Axis and German morale and resistance would be greatly impaired by the knowledge that she was standing alone against an angered, determined world.

This major revision in strategy, it must be understood, does not mean abandonment of the European war entirely. Undoubtedly, further perfection of military attack operations against Germany and Italy is being brought under consideration at Quebec.

It does mean, however, that the major and imminent operation will shift to the Pacific theatre.

Finally, there are two pieces of the jigsaw puzzle that make the foregoing analysis more than a possibility.

First, that Russia would have attended a conference dealing purely with a European invasion in the near future, and that the probable reason she did not attend was because strategy against Japan—a nation with which she is not at war—was under microscopic discussion.

Second, that the preceding five conferences between Mr. Roosevelt and Mr. Churchill, particularly the Casablanca meeting, must have formulated in great detail of the when, where and how of operations against Europe.

The sheriff said Legg had sold 121 bushels of corn at a Pomeroy mill the day after the Wilson corn was stolen. The corn sold there was identical in amount and kind as that taken from the Wilson farm. Radcliff said several other factors link Legg with the burglary.

The sheriff said he obtained clues which helped him break the case after he contacted sheriffs of several other counties to ask them to check elevators and mills in their districts to try to trace the corn. A call from Sheriff Ralph Walker of Meigs county disclosed that Legg had sold grain in Pomeroy. The man told the sheriff that he had bought the corn from a relative.

Legg has been in jail since mid-week while the sheriff was completing his investigation.

REYNOLDS, THOMPSON
RELEASED FROM JAIL

Lee Reynolds and Leroy Thompson, both of whom have been serving one to three year terms in the county jail after pleading guilty of being habitual violators of city ordinances concerning intoxication, were given conditional paroles Saturday by Judge Meeker Terwilliger. The paroles were also signed by other officials of the court.

Reynolds has been in jail since April 7 and Thompson since July 13.

Both men have been serving as trustees, working for the last several weeks cleaning and painting much of the courthouse interior.

State health departments are said to spend nearly $54,000,000 a year throughout the United States.

initial heavy raid launched against the airbases this last week killed more than 1,500 Japanese airmen and battered some 215 Japanese planes, most of which were caught still on the ground apparently in preparation for a strong assault against Allied concentrations.

Japs Retire

Deprived of their much-needed air support, the Japanese were forced to retire rapidly when American - Australian fighters drove forward to seize four important strongpoints around Salamaua. Taken quickly were Goodwin Junction, Mount Tambu, Ordubadi and Komiatum.

Elsewhere in the fringe of islands protecting Australia, American naval units were adding to the toll of Jap ships sunk or damaged. Off Dovell on recently-captured Vella Lavella Island in the Solomons, two small enemy surface craft were destroyed. Medium bombers also attacked three barges near Timbala, scored two hits on a small beached cargo vessel at Paraso bay, and sent to the bottom a large barge at Kukusa on Choiseul Island.

Allied warships continued their incessant bombardment of the Italian peninsula with a new 24-hour assault, while swarms of African-based bombers practically isolated the port of Naples by blasting its rail and road connections with the rest of Italy.

Selecting the railroad marshaling yards at Benevento, 40 miles northeast of Naples, as their special target, squadrons of B-25 Mitchell bombers and their P-38 Lightning escorts spread devastation among switching points, repair shops and rolling stock and battered two nearby rail and highway junctions while shooting down four of 20 attacking enemy interceptors.

Lash At Railroad

Simultaneously, B-26 Marauders, also operating behind a protective screen of two-tailed Lightnings, lashed the Aversa yards north of Naples and blocked the line linking that city with Rome.

This main rail link was dotted with gutted trains, while along the right of way at least one large warehouse was badly damaged and a number of smaller buildings and a gas works nearly demolished.

One of the wildest dogfights of recent days broke out in the skies over the Aversa yards as Axis intercepting formations challenging the raiding squadrons. Marauder gunners shot down five Nazi planes in 20 minutes while Lightning pilots chalked up an additional six. Six other craft were listed as probably destroyed, making at least 17 planes out of the 30 in the enemy formation accounted for.

British-flown Warhawks also punished the toe of the Italian boot in a round-the-clock onslaught which saw the RAF pilots sweep over the region three times in search of targets not already rendered almost useless. They blasted the Locri rallying and the junction city of Gioia, 30 miles northeast of Messina. Other Warhawks, flown by American pilots, rocked Sardinia and set extensive grassfires in the vicinity of the Monserrato airfield.

Mainland Shelled

Simultaneously, naval vessels hurled volley after volley into the western shore of Calabria province in southern Italy, causing fires and explosions among targets which also were under attack during the day from low-flying warplanes.

The Algiers radio was heard by CBS in New York reporting that huge fires swept shore installations bordering the gulf of Gioia following the naval bombardment which was carried out by American warships. The announcer, quoting a headquarters communiqué, said also that units of the Royal Navy blasted landing craft trapped off Scapa and sent at least seven of the craft to the bottom.

And on the Russian front, things were going bad for the Axis. The Berlin radio said still another offensive has been started by the Red army, which has turned a 1,000-mile stretch into a flaming battlefield.

ITALY THROUGH RUMORS CLAIM CLARK GARAGE RAID CLEARED BY MILITARY POLICE

Burglary in the Clark garage in Williamsport early Wednesday was cleared up Friday afternoon by military police from Fort Thomas, Ky., when they arrested three northwestern Ohio youths. The youths, arrested on suspicion by the army men, were carrying ration books taken from the Clark garage. They admitted the burglary, Deputy Sheriff Vern Pontious, who had investigated the burglary, was informed.

The youths were Raymond Rutkowski, 16, and Dan Garcyski, 17, both of Toledo, and Leo Dobrolonski, 17, of Rossford, O. All three were turned over to the U. S. district attorney at Louisville, Ky., for prosecution on charge of theft of ration books.

One of the books taken was a gasoline book owned by Wayne Chester, near Williamsport, while books No. 1, 2 and 3, owned by Mrs. Hazel Clark, were also found in their possession.

The capture was made at Elizabethtown, Ky. Mayor W. D. Heiskell of Williamsport was first contacted by J. W. Hodges, county attorney at Elizabethtown. Heiskell referred the county attorney to Deputy Pontious.

SHERIFF JAILS COLUMBUS MAN FOR CORN THEFT

Theft of 121 bushels of corn from the farm of William Wilson, near Ashville, the night of August 13, was announced Saturday by Sheriff Charles Radcliff as cleared up with the arrest of Stephen Legg, 50, of 1530 West Elmwood street, Columbus. The sheriff said that Legg has not admitted the burglary, but that evidence the sheriff has obtained is indisputable.

The sheriff said Legg had sold 121 bushels of corn at a Pomery mill the day after the Wilson corn was stolen. The corn sold there was identical in amount and kind as that taken from the Wilson farm. Radcliff said several other factors link Legg with the burglary.

DEPUTY SLAIN WHEN DESERTER RESISTS ARREST

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., Aug. 21 — Edison Jackson, Jr., 19-year-old soldier, was locked up in Anderson county jail today on charges of killing Deputy Sheriff Reuben Fox when resisting arrest for desertion.

Police said the attempt to fight off Jackson's seizure became a family affair. The soldier's grandmother, Mrs. Sarah White, was shot in the thigh during the gun play in which Fox was killed.

Jackson's mother and her friend, Mrs. Dallas Flannigan, were charged with aiding him and were jailed.

The two women and the soldier were rounded up several hours after the shooting at the Jackson home in Briceville.

Mrs. White is expected to recover.

RUSSIA PUSHES FOR KNOCKOUT BLOW

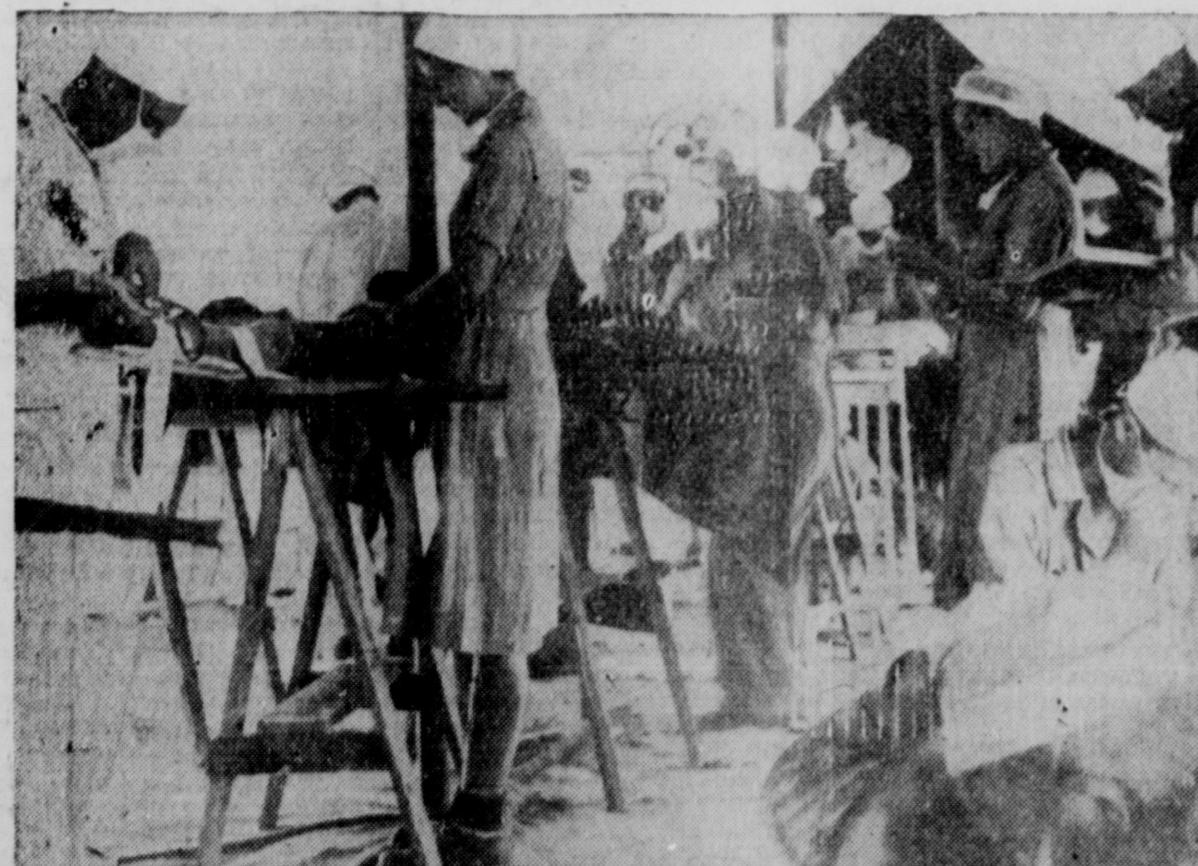

EUROPE'S eastern front, scene of a titanic and bloody struggle between the Soviets and Nazis, continues to be dominated by once almost defeated Red armies. When Germany reneged on her non-aggression pact with Russia in 1940, the two armies faced each other (1) in a line running through the middle of Poland. By the Fall of 1942, the highly mechanized and well-equipped Wehrmacht had made its deepest penetration (3) into Russia. The tide turned, however, in the Winter of that year when a stubborn Russia lifted the siege of Stalingrad and continued to relentlessly grind her foe back to a line (2) running from Leningrad in the north to Novorossisk in the south. Latest dispatches indicate that two key cities on that line, Kharkov and Bryansk, are almost within the grasp of the Red Armies. (International)

PT BOAT BLASTED AT RENDOVA HARBOR

THIS BEACHED WRECKAGE is all that remains of a scrappy U. S. Navy PT boat that received a direct hit during an assault by Japanese dive bombers at Rendova Harbor, in the Solomons. Despite the fact that most of her superstructure was blown off, the crew remained in the fight by firing an undamaged anti-aircraft gun in the stern. Rendova was a base for the Munda campaign. RUSSIA PUSHES FOR KNOCKOUT BLOW

EUROPE'S eastern front, scene of a titanic and bloody struggle between the Soviets and Nazis, continues to be dominated by once almost defeated Red armies. When Germany reneged on her non-aggression pact with Russia in 1940, the two armies faced each other (1) in a line running through the middle of Poland. By the Fall of 1942, the highly mechanized and well-equipped Wehrmacht had made its deepest penetration (3) into Russia. The tide turned, however, in the Winter of that year when a stubborn Russia lifted the siege of Stalingrad and continued to relentlessly grind her foe back to a line (2) running from Leningrad in the north to Novorossisk in the south. Latest dispatches indicate that two key cities on that line, Khar'kov and Bryansk, are almost within the grasp of the Red Armies. (International)

PRELUDE TO INVASION? ALLIES BOMB FRENCH FIELDS

HEAVY AERIAL ATTACKS on enemy airfields that would be used as bases for defense forces are usually preliminaries to invasion. Allied bombers recently have been sweeping over France, raiding all such fields used by the Luftwaffe. Pocked by 450 bomb craters, the field at Villa Coublay, five miles from Paris, is pictured above four hours after American Flying Fortresses had attacked it. Hangars, workshops, assembly plants have been wrecked. U. S. Army Air Forces photo. (International Soundphoto)

WORKING TO SAVE LIVES OF AMERICAN FIGHTING MEN

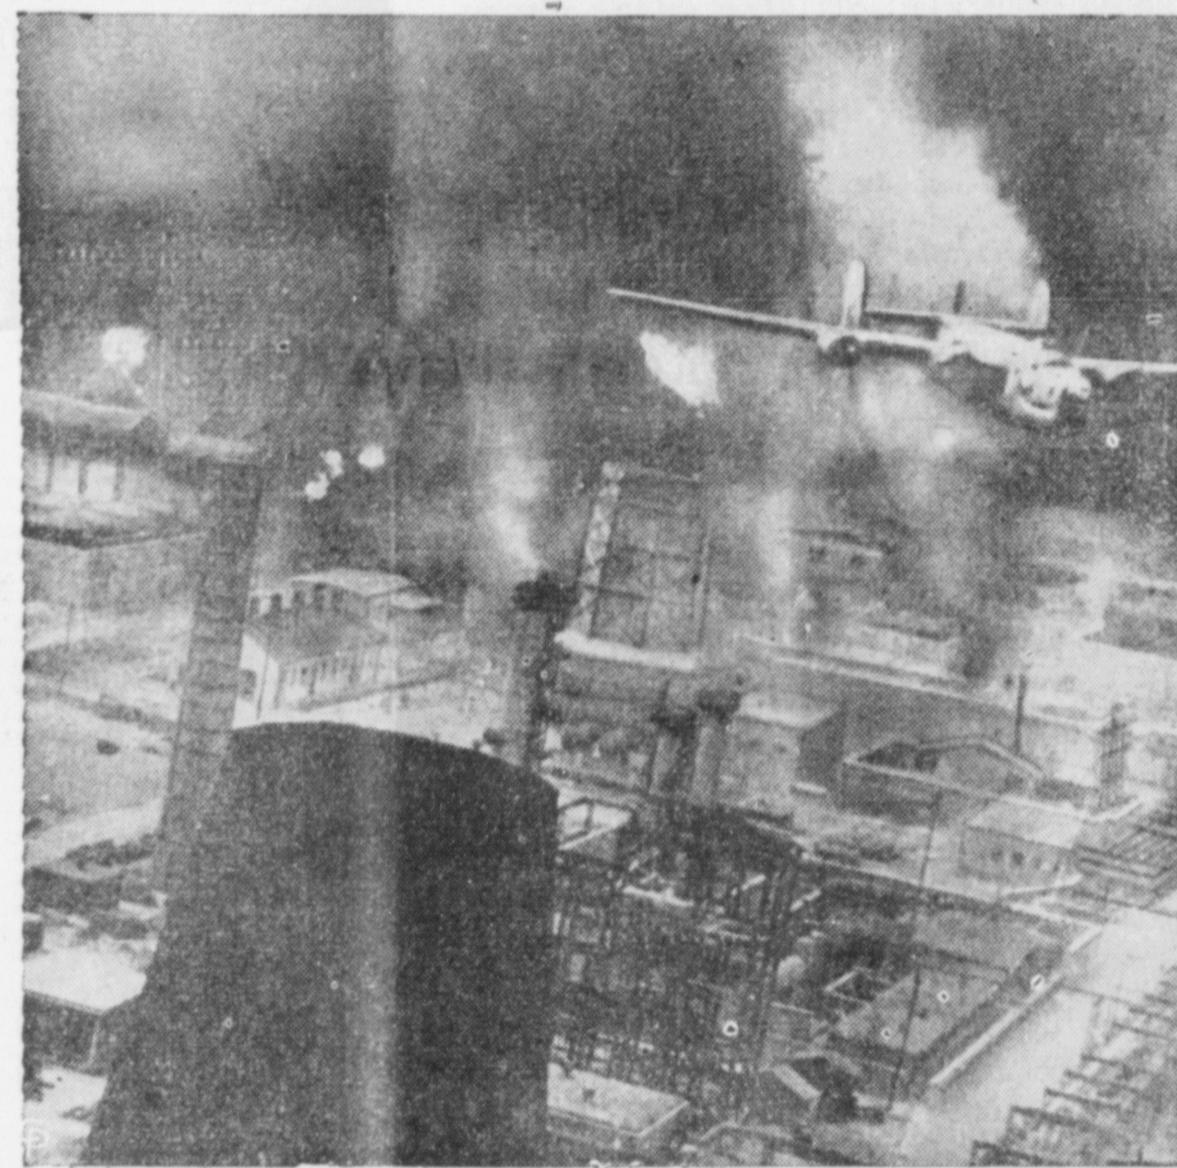

MANY AMERICAN SOLDIERS are alive today because of the efficient work of doctors and nurses like these, many of whom treated wounded fighting men within range of enemy guns on Sicily. MOHAMMEDAN CHAPLAINS

THAT there are American Mohammedans is not widely known. Largely, but not wholly, of Syrian birth or ancestry, they are now advertising their existence by a plea for special chaplains in the armed forces to serve those of their faith. Protestants, Catholics and Jews all have their own spiritual advisers; so, the Mohammedans say, "Why shouldn't we?"

If their request is denied, it will be because of their small numbers. The latest available figures, compiled in 1936, show only 40,000 in the United States, and these scattered so that no great number are to be found in a single community. They will probably have to satisfy themselves with the army rule, stated by the Office of Chief of Chaplains: "Whenever it becomes obvious that the majority of the personnel in any unit or station is composed of Mohammedans or any other faith, the personnel will be provided with a chaplain of that faith." Another statement of the War Department adds, "Where minority groups need services which a unit chaplain cannot provide, local clergy are solicited to help out." The question is being further considered by the department.

Plainly an effort is being made to meet the religious requirements of all Americans. Freedom of religion is one of the causes for which America is fighting.

CHANCES FOR PEACE

EVENTS have sometimes in the past moved faster than was then realized. As late as July 31, 1918, the British Imperial War Council was convinced that there was no hope of winning the war before the middle of 1919. Yet by the third week in August the German generals knew that the game was up, and in November the end came.

While it would be foolish for Americans to cherish false hopes, there are some signs that Germany is in August, 1943, where she was in August, 1918. One great difference is that 25 years ago the German leaders did not seriously expect to be personally called to account, nor were they. Today no important Nazi can have the slightest hope of surviving after the downfall of the German armies.

PREDICTION

THAT a world danger like Hitler can be funny, is one of the odd things that make life interesting. Back in March, 1942, he announced, "The Bolshevik masses which were not able to conquer the German soldier in the Winter will be beaten in every direction in the Summer."

Every German should have this prediction pasted on his wall.

American Strategists
Repeatedly Outwit Foo

Special to Central Press

WASHINGTON—Skeptics who once worried about the ability of American military and naval strategists to outwit the war-prepared Axis leaders had to change their opinions during the past year.

The reason—remarkably low U. S. casualties in amphibious operations in both the Pacific and Mediterranean areas.

Even some high-ranking military and naval leaders were surprised by the comparatively small price paid by American forces in establishing beachheads.

Secret of American success has been careful planning, superb sea and air support and, most of all, the fact that in each case the American planners surprised the Axis and outguessthem.

The Japs were not prepared for the twin Yank landing on Attu, and consequently, American troops suffered few battle casualties in the landing operations.

Heavy enemy resistance was expected in Guadalcanal in August, 1942, but there, too, the Japs were caught off guard. The same cagey tactics were employed in recent landings on New Georgia Island in the Solomons where the Americans outflanked the Munda airfield at Viru harbor and other points. The same held true in Sicily, with American, British and Canadian forces landing at beaches that were only lightly defended—probably because the Axis thought the terrain was too difficult for landing.

The U. S. Navy has sprung some terrific surprises to upset the so-called "invincible" Japanese Navy. American carrier planes trapped them off Midway in June, 1942, and virtually broke the back of Nippon's striking power. In the battle of Guadalcanal, Nov. 13-15, last year the Yanks completely routed the Japs and struck such a blow that the sons of heaven subsequently lost the island.

Prediction: Look for more surprises and daring thrusts at the Axis in the near future.

WAshington—Don't be surprised if Hollywood opens one of the strongest—and strangest—lobbies ever set up in Washington. The film companies are making plans to this effect, and the lobby would not be to influence legislation, but to keep congress acquainted with the multiple problems of Hollywood.

The film industry now ranks, after farming, automobiles and steel, as one of the most important in the U. S. A. The farm lobby is all-powerful in Washington. Automobiles and steel are potently represented through the U. S. Chamber of Commerce, the National Manufacturers Association, as well as their own private lobbies.

But Hollywood so far has let its views percolate to congress through glamour girl photos plus Will Hays' peregrinations between New York, Washington and Hollywood.

Both have been equally ineffective. Will Hays is now as dead politically as the Harding administration which spawned him. He carries no weight in Washington.

Two years ago, the film moguls hoped that the appointment of Wendell Willkie as counsel in the senate "smear" investigation, and later his chairmanship of 20th Century Fox, would help Hollywood.

But today, through no fault of Willkie's, they believe Col. McCormick's Chicago Tribune attacks against Hollywood are motivated as much by his dislike of Willkie as his objection to what he calls "New Deal Propaganda" in "Mission to Moscow."

That is why film industry leaders want to establish a streamlined, non-political lobby right in the nation's capitol.

Migraine Attacks a Puzzle

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

AMONG THE most mysterious sort of maladies are the attacks which come along every once in a while with no warning and no apparent cause. I mean, for instance, what is called sick headache or migraine. Here a person is going along in the best of health and out of a clear sky, with no change in eating habits, no dissipation, no extra work or exertion, bingo! he begins to have a headache that was meant for a hippocampus.

These people resent this particular form of Nature's habits and I for one don't blame them. An earned headache is one thing. You know who is responsible and you take your medicine. Even a headache that you haven't exactly earned, one that comes from having caught a cold, you can take with a certain degree of philosophy because you know that is part of life and everyone has to bear such a burden once in a while.

These sick headaches, however, have just been wished on you, probably by some ancestor, and they are going to come every so often whether you sit up reading too late, or eat too much dinner, or have your wife's relatives in, and you just have to bear them. I don't have them myself, but I can understand the resentment of the person who does.

Other Periodical Attacks

There are other kinds of periodic attacks. One is a form of dizziness—Meniere's disease. Then there is intermittent rheumatism—hydroarthrosis. And, of course, intermittent attacks of muscular irritability—epilepsy.

Science is making some forward steps in the classification and treatment of this great group of paroxysmal maladies and naturally enough a certain relationship between them is found. Which is on the basis that they are allergic in character.

Taking the paroxysmal headache and the paroxysmal dizzy-wood, OWI foreign director, to broadcast both sides of the coming presidential campaign to soldiers and sailors stationed abroad.

Some leading New Deal senators declared that political broadcasts, in the good old American fashion, with each side denouncing the other, would be harmful to soldier morale and would cause damage among civilian listeners in other countries.

From President Roosevelt to supporters of the Ball-Burton-Hill Hatch resolution calling for formation of a United Nations organization and a post-war police force came assurance that he will not interfere with senate debate and consideration.

American beer drinkers will be looking for some other equally refreshing beverage to help quench their thirst—probably for the duration. WFB now reports that brewers, short of materials, will brew about the same amount of beer they did in 1942. But . . . the nation is 50 per cent thirstier for beer than it was last year.

Watch for public charges in the next month that Secretary of Interior Ickes' oil policies favor big companies at the expense of eastern farm co-operatives, with the claim that the co-ops are being surprised by the Axis and outguessthem.

The Chinese had a word for it. They used to say that one picture was worth 10,000 words.

Elmer Davis' Office of War Information now has thousands of pictures, but it is at a loss for words.

When an economy-minded congress recently slashed Davis' budget for OWI domestic operations from $8,500,000 to $2,500,000, it pared the agency's photographic unit from 35 people down to Harry Coleman, chief of the section; three photographers, and a couple of clerks. Coleman got $50,000 a year to run on.

Result: OWI possesses some 10,000 pictures made at a cost of thousands of dollars over the past year, but it has no personnel to care for and distribute the prints. Thus, the photographs—principally of American war factories and other martial scenes—are virtually "frozen."

OWI once did a rushing business on the pictures, filling requests for trade magazines, industrial publications and other uses.

Now they are gathering dust for lack of funds to operate the file rooms.

CHAPTER THIRTY-EIGHT

MARTY HAD told her she must accept him as he was, accepting, too, what he claimed to be, a philosopher on a rest cure who had come down to look at the ocean and untangle his thoughts. Those had been the things he had first said to her about himself. He had not offered to add anything more to that, except to say she must go on believing in him, taking him on trust.

Yet Karen could not help being troubled about her recent discovery, that what she had thought was a radio in Martin's trailer was a diathermy machine. Afterward she wondered if she ought not to have warned him about the broadcast she had heard, that the government had issued an order that all diathermy machines must be registered, since they could be used as short-wave sending sets. She had warned Martin that he was being watched, which meant he was under some sort of suspicion. He had not seemed alarmed, but he had thanked her for it. It was unthinkable that Marty could be any kind of fifth columnist, a spy, plotting against his country, so unthinkable that Karen told herself she would not think such thoughts. She had told Martin she would go on believing in him and so she would do just that.

He had promised he would come over soon to see Buffy. She had told him he might come to see her, too, if that would not be "asking too much," as she half teasingly, half seriously had added. She added also that she knew her father would be pleased to have Martin come again, as he had enjoyed the younger man's company and had taken quite a liking to him.

That had pleased Martin immensely. He had told Karen that he considered it quite a compliment because he admired Jim Bell as much as any man he ever had heard about or met. "He's a great guy, your dad," Marty had said so warmly that Karen's heart had opened toward him even more.

It was things that Marty said like that which made Karen know he could not possibly be a fifth columnist, all mystery about him, the fact that he was under suspicion, the big diathermy machine to the contrary. Of course she was disappointed that Marty was not in uniform, that he had evaded her efforts to find out what part he intended to play in this war, but she supposed she would just have to accept and like that, too. hadn't she adopted Martin's philosophy as her own?

Marty had said that a man did not like to see a woman in uniform, supplying scientific evidence to bear out that statement, but there was one man who seemed to approve thoroughly of the way Karen had felt about that postponement; she was glad he was in agreement with it. Apparently he had accepted the explanation she had given him, that she and Paul had been wiser to wait until spring because of the war. Apparently her father had accepted, too, the implication that such agreement had been mutual.

Now he said, looking up at her through the smoke of his cigar, "I've sometimes thought perhaps we hurried you a bit—Paul and I—thinking the Festival would be a fitting time for the announcement of your engagement. As I said before, too, marriage is not a matter to be rushed into unless there is not one iota of doubt, unless both young people are not only eager but as sure as can be."

Karen did not say anything to all this. What could she say, when the certainty her father spoke of was now so uncertain? Now Paul was not even as eager as he had been, then, which at that time her father had said had been only natural for a young man. Paul might deny this, but Karen knew it was so.

"I said," her father continued, "that there was no one I'd rather see you married to than Paul, and I still hold to that, my dear. Paul's like a son to me. But you must make very certain that he is the only man for you, that your heart knows there could never be any question as to that, or any other who could possibly fill that place in it."

Karen still kept silent; she had sat down on the footstool at her father's feet, a place she often took when listening to him. She could not tell her father that it was Paul, not she, who might not now be certain in his heart that Karen was the only one.

"I also told you," her father wound up these things he had long been pondering and wanting to say, "that I was glad it was Paul because I knew he would not take you from me. That was selfish of me, my dear. I know that what you said was true, that no one could take you from me, since you will always be in my heart. I want you to know, Karen, that I meant it when I told you that your happiness must come first—before everything else."

Karen reached up to give his hand a tight squeeze. She could say something to that at last. She said, "I know that, darling, although it is dear of you to say it to me." It gave her freedom to marry the man she loved, no matter who he might be, no matter how it might hurt her father or disappoint him, should it not be Paul. So it was a beautiful gift, for Karen had long resolved that she must marry the man of her father's choice because of Denis and the unhappiness her sister's marriage had brought him.

As if he read her thoughts, Jim Bell said now something she never had expected to hear from him, something he had not ever put into words before, or realized maybe was in that tough old heart of his. He said, "I believe now I was wrong about Denis. I should not have taken the stand I did. If Raoul the man she loved I should have accepted him. I ought not to have held this bitterness, this refusal to forgive and forget, in myself so long."

They correspond to the "red" and "white" migraines of the famous founder of electric treatment, du Bois-Reymond. They can be treated, but in exactly different manners—the dilator "red" group with a constrictor medicine, niotinic acid, the constrictive "white" group with histamine itself.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

R. C.—I am getting lumps all over me. One doctor told me they were fat tumors. Would diet help to keep more from coming.

Answer: Multiple lipomas, the name of your condition, is a common affection—but not dangerous, painful or anything to worry about. Diet does not touch them. A person may become extremely emaciated and still keep his fat tumors.

D. N.—Will a diseased gallbladder cause some enlargement of the heart? Can the gallbladder be removed when there is some enlargement of the heart?

Answer: Gallbladder trouble and heart trouble are frequently associated, probably as cause and effect. Removal of the diseased gallbladder has a good effect on the heart.

Other Periodical Attacks

There are other kinds of periodical attacks. One is a form of dizziness—Meniere's disease. Then there is intermittent rheumatism—hydroarthrosis. And, of course, intermittent attacks of muscular irritability—epilepsy.

Science is making some forward steps in the classification and treatment of this great group of paroxysmal maladies and naturally enough a certain relationship between them is found. Which is on the basis that they are allergic in character.

Taking the paroxysmal headache and the paroxysmal dizzy-

ness alone for purposes of comparison, it has been found that certain individuals in each group respond in a definite way to a drug called histamine. They constitute a sub-group because others with apparently identical symptoms do not react to histamine.

Histamine is found in many tissues of the body, but under normal circumstances is bound chemically so that it does not exert any physiological action. But if injected into the body in a fresh, unbound state it causes dilation of the blood vessels and a fall of blood pressure. In animals in a state of allergy histamine is liberated from the tissue from the liver.

Now it is possible and reasonable to conclude from these known facts that in some people with migraine or paroxysmal Meniere's syndrome their bodily mechanism is such that every once in a while the liver lets loose a flood of histamine into the blood stream, which might account for their symptoms.

These constitute one group—there is another group in whom the attack is accompanied by contraction of the blood vessels and rise in blood pressure. They correspond to the "red" and "white" migraines of the famous founder of electric treatment, du Bois-Reymond. They can be treated, but in exactly different manners—the dilator "red" group with a constrictor medicine, niotinic acid, the constrictive "white" group with histamine itself.

God Gives Laws for His People

The children of Israel came to the wilderness of Sinai, and Moses went into the mountain to talk with God.

ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

Scripture—Exodus 19:24; Deut. 11:18-21; Galatians 3:23-28; 5:13, 14

After the Lord had given His commands to Moses he called the elders and told them what the Lord had said.

On the third day, after the people had cleansed themselves they waited to hear the trumpet sound.

Amid thunders and lightnings and from a great cloud the Lord gave His commandments.

Church Briefs

No church service will be held Sunday at Calvary Evangelical church, only the Sunday school being conducted. The pastor, the Rev. W. D. Ramsey, is attending conference.

"Life's Dimensions" is the sermon subject chosen for Sunday 10:30 a.m. services by the Rev. Clarence Swearingen of the First Methodist church. Robert Sprout will be the soloist singing "Spirit of God" by Neidlinger.

The Rev. J. E. Huston of the United Brethren church will preach on "In Remembrance of Me" at Sunday morning services. The sermon to be followed by the Holy Communion service. At evening worship, scheduled at 7:30, the theme will be "The Great Example".

No mid-week services will be held next week at the United Brethren church because of the annual conference being held in Newark.

Trinity Lutheran Family Circle will conduct its August meeting next Thursday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Walters, Circleville township.

The second request sermon will be offered Sunday by the Rev. G. L. Troutman of Trinity Lutheran church. The subject will be "Sitting Where Others Must Sit". Three additional request sermons will follow in the next three weeks.

Pipeline Ditching Crews Set to Start Placing Pipe

Arrival Of Worker's Again To Test Circleville's Housing Facilities

300 TO SEEK QUARTERS

Oil Pumping Station On Porter Farm Nears Operating Point

Pipeline construction activity in the Pickaway county area will be stepped up starting next week and will continue at an ever-increasing pace until all work on the 24-inch and 20-inch lines has been completed in this district.

Spokesmen for the C. S. Foreman Co., contractors in charge of the Indiana-line-to-Lancaster section of the new 20-inch petroleum products line, said that during the next 30 days ditching crews will be in Pickaway county, putting the 20-inch pipe into the ground. The crews moving from the west have reached Fayette county and are making progress toward Pickaway county.

300 Seek Quarters

With the arrival of the ditching and welding outfit will come another test for Circleville's housing facilities. Washington C. H. is already experiencing a housing problem with 300 workmen expected to be seeking rooms and residences by September 1. The rush here is expected about two or three weeks later.

The next 20 days will also see completion of the big pumping station on the John Porter farm in Monroe township. Workmen and engineers have been engaged in the pumping station work for the last two months and finishing touches are about ready to be put on the important project.

Twenty-five pumping stations will serve the "Big Inch" when all are completed. Foreman Co. officials said Saturday that only two pumping stations in addition to that at Five Points have not yet been completed. They are at Lebanon and Somersett.

While crude oil is moving through the 24-inch line now to the east coast, the number of barrels traveling daily through the line will be boosted to 375,000 when all the electrically-operated stations have been finished.

Work Delayed

The Foreman Co. has been delayed in its work in Pickaway county, high water in the Scioto valley causing a stoppage and shortage of supplies causing other difficulty. Clamps used to hold down the pipe under stream beds have not been available, but a supply has been shipped from Galveston, Texas, and is expected to reach Circleville no later than Monday or Tuesday.

When these clamps arrive the Foreman Co. will be able to speed its crossing of the Scioto river, Darby and Deer creeks. No blasting operations will be necessary to clear a way through any stream except Deer creek where a limestone deposit serves as a barrier.

Much damage was done to farmlands in the Doylestown, Pa., area during the last week when a break in the 24-inch line 18 inches long and two or three inches wide was found. Oil was gushing two feet in the air and about 10,000 barrels had been poured into a field.

The break was found by farmhands.

Big Inch Makes Good
Value of the 24-inch crude oil line, which runs from Longview, Texas, to the east coast, was stressed by Ralph K. Davies, acting petroleum administrator, in Washington, D. C., where he declared this week that the "Big Inch" is more than making good.

Davies said that record 24-hour test run of 328,000 barrels of crude oil had been sent through the western leg of the line which runs from Longview to Norris City, Ill. All pumping facilities have been completed there.

"Engineers in charge of the pipeline have been vindicated in their contention that the big underground carrier would have a top capacity of at least 325,000 barrels a day during the warm summer months," Davies declared.

RURAL ELECTRIC COOP REELECTS THREE TRUSTEES

Roy D. White of Darby township and Guy Belt and John Eakin of Fairfield county have been reelected to the board of trustees of the South-Central Ohio Rural Electric Cooperative, the election being part of the business session conducted at the annual meeting conducted at the Lancaster fairground.

Howard Newell Stevenson of Jackson township is also a member of the board and is president of the REA.

A crowd of approximately 3,000 persons attended the meeting, all enjoying an entertaining program offered by radio artists.

The report of Darwin Kinder, secretary-treasurer, showed that assets of the REA are $1,038,507.41. Formed in May, 1936, the cooperative energized its first line Christmas eve of 1937.

The cooperative has 3,424 patrons compared with 955 in 1938. It now energizes 1,072 miles of line in nine counties, most of the cooperative's service being centered in Pickaway, Fairfield and Perry counties.

Voices of several leaders of the cooperative organization, including Mr. Stevenson, Marvin Steely, Mr. Kinder and others, were heard at noon Saturday on the WLW Farm and Home hour. Interviews conducted at the annual meeting were recorded by the radio station for re-broadcast.

TEN DRAFTEES LEAVE MONDAY FOR NAVY DUTY

Their furloughs ending Sunday, 10 Circleville and Pickaway county men who have been accepted for training in Uncle Sam's navy will report Monday at the Columbus navy headquarters for transportation to training centers. Most of the men are expected to go to Great Lakes, while at least two others, Robert Hundley and Tom Alkire, who have been accepted for the Seabees, will be sent elsewhere, probably Camp Peary, Va.

The 10 men comprise part of the August draft contingent.

Included in the group in addition to Hundley and Alkire will be Kirk Lloyd, Cupp, Clarence M. Cloud, Homer Leo McClure, Albert Melvin Hayes, Robert E. Seitz, John F. Vincent, Ralph G. Willis and Marvin L. Jenkins.

Men taken for the army are granted furloughs of three weeks.

PRIORITIES HIT JAYCEES' HONOR ROLL PROGRAM

Junior Chamber of Commerce's Honor Roll project suffered a blow Friday when government War Production Board officials refused to grant priorities for purchase of lumber and other materials needed to erect the board at the courthouse plaza.

The committee decided also that no reunion would be held until the war comes to an end.

Most of the Armstrong family live in the Salt Creek valley, but many others have been traveling to Pickaway county each year from a distance.

Farm Leaders Advance Move To Make County Conservation District

Progress is being reported by Pickaway county farm leaders in a project which they hope will soon make Pickaway county a soil conservation district.

Petitions are being circulated now in all parts of the county for landowners' signatures. When the petitions have been completed date for a conservation district vote will be fixed.

Pickaway is one of seven Ohio counties which are almost ready to send their sponsoring committees before the state conservation district committee to ask for a public hearing to determine if elections to establish districts should be held in those counties.

On August 16 Ohio had 12 soil conservation districts, and farmers of Fairfield and Clermont counties will vote August 21 on the question of establishing districts.

John A. Slipper, extensive soil conservationist, Ohio State university, states he expects 10 more counties will begin preliminary work this Fall to find if farmers there want districts in their counties, so one-third of the counties in the state will have taken advantage of the district soil conservation law within 18 months of its enactment. Mr. Slipper says there are good reasons for the popularity of county soil conservation districts.

Inside reason why the two Liberty vessels were withheld from Madame Chiang was because the Chinese proposed paying British-scale wages to the crews on these ships. This would have meant agitation by 10,000 Chinese seamen on British ships throughout the world.

For a time this developed into an embarrassing, almost ugly argument. The Chinese Government felt that it had a right to pay its seamen any wages it wished on the two Liberty ships we were giving Madame Chiang. But the British, supported by the War Shipping Administration, opposed it.

The argument got down to the very roots of Empire dominance: down to Britannia's rule over the seven seas. For what most people don't realize is that hundreds of British ships are manned by low-paid Chinese sailors.

In peacetimes, Chinese seamen sail on every British merchant ship on the Pacific. Thousands of them ply up and down the Yangtze river, along the China coast, among the South Sea Islands—all under British captains and the British flag. In wartime, their number has been perhaps greater, due to the terrific casualties among British seamen.

The faculty this year includes Herbert Brown, manual arts and mathematics; Jeannette Chilcote, English and domestic science; Ruth Dixon, music and biological science; Alice Delong, commercial and social science; Leslie Dearth, seventh and eighth grade and physical education; Margaret Goode, fifth and sixth grades; Margaret Chilcote, third and fourth grades; Florence Bochart, first and second grades, and Mr. Strous, administration and guidance.

Saltcreek will open Tuesday, September 7, at 9 a.m., Eastern War Time, with a full session to be held.

The tanks of an American mechanized division use up enough gasoline in each 100 miles of travel to fill more than an average railway tank car.

According to a recent estimate, 4,753,000 tons of express were handled by Railway Express Agency in 1942.

which will be satisfactory for the Honor Roll.

Names of all men and women who have gone into service from Circleville and Pickaway county have been collected and are being prepared for placing on the Honor Roll boards.

Boyd Stout, chairman of the Jaycee committee which has been working diligently on the Honor Roll project, received the W.P.B. notice that such materials could better be used in the war effort.

Jaycees have been promised financial assistance from the Pickaway county Community Chest.

It is reported that France has been forced to pay Germany, as occupation costs for one year, a sum larger than that paid by Germany on the preparation accounts during the 20 years after the first World War.

After the war, of course, the British can reduce wages. Also they are still below the American scale. However, economists inside the Government feel that an important step has been taken toward equalization of American-British competition after the war.

The British did not make this decision easily. Obviously they recognized the ramifications it would have on the Empire after the war. Sir Arthur Salter negotiated regarding the matter for weeks. Lord Leathers, head of the British Ministry of War Transport, made a special trip to this country. In the end, Prime Minister Churchill himself sat in on the discussions.

Finally, the increased wage was agreed to not because of Madame Chiang Kai-shek and her two stymied Liberty ships, but because of heavy Chinese desertions from British ships in American harbors.

After the war, of course, the British can reduce wages. Also they are still below the American scale. However, economists inside the Government feel that an important step has been taken toward equalization of American-British competition after the war.
